The Cleveland Orchestra Music Study Groups

The classes meet at six convenient locations in Greater Cleveland and explore music from the Orchestra's current concert season through informal lectures, listening, and discussion.

Instructor

Lecturer Rose Breckenridge, who earned her Ph.D. in music at Case Western Reserve University, leads all Music Study Group classes.

Special Services for Persons with Vision Impairments

The Cleveland Sight Center supports services for their consumers at two Music Study Group locations, including curriculum materials for the visually impaired. For more information on Cleveland Sight Center services, call Jeri Rask at the Cleveland Sight Center: 216-791-8118.

Friday matinee concert tickets

The Orchestra's Alice Cull Fund provides Friday matinee concert tickets for Music Study Group members with vision impairments and their volunteer sighted guides from class.

Locations with special services

Music Study Group classes with special services for Sight Center consumers meet at Heights Lee Road Library and Fairview Park Library. Both locations offer Fall and Spring classes. Winter classes are also held at Heights Lee Road Library.

Reduced Registration Fee for Cleveland Sight Center Consumers

The Cleveland Sight Center supports a reduced registration fee for its consumers and their drivers: $50 for Fall & Spring at either location or $60 for Fall-Winter-Spring at Heights Library. Regular fees are $80 (2-parts) & $100 (3 parts).
