CARF Corner:

- Lisa Cellura joins Alexis Vinick, Charlotte Fornal, Susie Meles and Marcia Houston on the CARF Accreditation Team and will work with CSC associates to complete the application process and establish benchmarks and program measurements. Lisa has been instrumental over the last 20 years during the process to achieve this significant accreditation every three years.
- Vision Rehabilitation Services

Under Vision Rehabilitation Services, accreditation is available for the following Programs: Comprehensive Vision Rehabilitation Services; Orientation and Mobility Services, Vision Rehabilitation Therapy and Low Vision Therapy. Over the next few weeks, we will discuss at length each program description and some of the standards surveyors will review during a CARF survey session.

Comprehensive Vision Rehabilitation Services provide a comprehensive rehabilitation program, including skills acquisition, psychosocial adjustment and community integration for persons served. This is accomplished through a full-service continuum provided by residential and/or community-based blind or deaf/blind rehabilitation services. A comprehensive rehabilitation plan is developed to incorporate the person's expressed goals, identified needs as assessed by professional staff members and available community resources.

Part Two: Comprehensive vision rehabilitation services include not only direct services to those with changes in vision, but also services that result in the breaking down of barriers to community access. Public education and outreach activities increase the likelihood that persons with changes in vision will be aware of the services that are available to them; that their communities will be aware of the adaptations needed to provide equal access to information and resources; and that there will be a "level playing field" at school, work and at home..
